Super Bowl LIII is the monstrous and unavoidable elephant in the TV room this weekend. Many people you know are going to watch it even if you aren't, and with so much thematically similar counter-programming, the big game will be hard to escape. Even so, there are still plenty of options for what to watch this weekend should football not be your bag. From the Super Bowl itself to a new limited series on Netflix, here's what to watch on TV this weekend. ANDREW HUSBAND

"RUSSIAN DOLL"

Feb. 1 on Netflix

Co-created by Natasha Lyonne, Amy Poehler and Leslye Headland, "Russian Doll" stars the former as a young woman named Nadia who's having difficulty coming to terms with her life. A party meant to celebrate it, however, quickly becomes as surreal as it is comedically dangerous when she begins to experience it over and over again. "Russian Doll" adeptly mixes the comedy and drama genres, so audiences won't want to miss it.

KITTEN BOWL VI

GETTY IMAGES

Feb. 3 at 2 p.m. on Hallmark

Though Hallmark's Puppy Bowl came first, the Hallmark Channel has been broadcasting its own Super Bowl alternative for the past few years. Dubbed the Kitten Bowl, this year's version will premiere at 2 p.m., an hour before the Puppy Bowl. Much like its Animal Planet counterpart, Hallmark's TV event is fueled by adoption candidates from animal shelters across the country and encourages viewers to donate or adopt pets.

"THE WORLD'S BEST"

Feb. 3 at 10 p.m. on CBS

Not to be outdone by "The Voice," "America's Got Talent" and other reality competition shows at other networks, CBS is using the Super Bowl to launch "The World's Best" on Sunday. Hosted by James Corden of "The Late Late Show," "The World's Best" is billed as a "one-of-a-kind global talent competition series" that will pit numerous acts from across the globe against one another for the approval of judges Drew Barrymore, RuPaul Charles and Faith Hill and a global panel of industry experts.

PUPPY BOWL XV

Feb. 3 at 3 p.m. on Animal Planet

Animal Planet's annual alternative to the Super Bowl telecast returns in the form of Puppy Bowl XV. Although it's actually airing at 3 p.m., which is four full hours before the 2019 Super Bowl telecast, dog fanatics are encouraged to tune in before and after its broadcast. Per usual, the "playing field" will consist of "players" recruited from various animal shelters. Young kangaroos will serve as the sideline cheerleaders and kittens will occupy the stands.

SUPER BOWL LIII

Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. on CBS

Obviously, the biggest TV ticket in town this weekend is the 2019 Super Bowl matchup between the New England Patriots and the Los Angeles Rams in Atlanta. Fans of either team will want to tune in for the game itself and its inevitably-contested outcome. However, those hoping for a few fun (and expensive) commercials boasting big surprises from TV and film studios alike may want to watch as well.

Spice up your Super Bowl party with this awesome recipe.

Local 'Top Chef' star shares favorite Super Bowl party recipe

Spice up your game day with this tasty dish. MATT JUUL

The Patriots are back in the Super Bowl this weekend, which means fans across New England will be parked in front of their TVs with friends and family to see if Tom Brady can take home ring No. 6. If you need some ideas to spice up your game day party, we have a fun Super Bowl recipe for you, courtesy of local chef and "Top Chef" star Adrienne Wright.

ADRIENNE WRIGHT'S SHORT RIB BRAISE

Ingredients:

- 6-7 short ribs
- 8 cloves garlic
- 6 oz. butter
- 6 sprigs of thyme
- 1 cup red wine
- 4 cups beef stock
- 6 oz. soy sauce
- 3 Tbsp. sesame oil
- 6 oz. agave syrup
- 5 large carrots (peeled and large dice)
- 1 cup fresh horseradish (large dice)
- 10 crimini mushrooms (quartered)
- 2 Spanish onions (quartered)
- 5 green onions (rough chopped)
- 2 red jalapenos (seeded and rough chopped)
- 1/4 cup fresh ginger (large dice)
- 2 Tbsp. black peppercorn
- as needed canola oil
- salt and pepper

Directions:

Season short ribs generously with salt and pepper. Coat the bottom of a saute pan in oil and heat, sear short ribs in pan (depending on the size of your pan, 1 to 2 short ribs at a time) until dark brown on all sides. Once brown, strain excess fat from pan, add 2 clove garlic, 1 oz. butter and 1 sprig of thyme (for each short rib) and baste short ribs for one minute.

Strain fat and aromatics out and deglaze pan with 1 oz. of red wine, repeat this step until all the short ribs are seared.

Heat all liquid ingredients (remaining wine, stock, soy sauce, and agave syrup) in a pot up to a simmer. Place short ribs in a braising pan and cover with a layer of cheesecloth (this will help remove the vegetables after cooking). Add all aromatics vegetables (remaining garlic, carrots horseradish, mushrooms, onions green onions, jalapenos, ginger and peppercorn) and stock over short ribs in braising pan. Cover the braising pan with aluminum foil and cook at 350 degrees for 3-4 hours until fork tender. Carefully remove the cheesecloth from the braising pan, this should allow you to take all of the vegetables out at once to discard, and let the short ribs sit till cool. The short ribs will absorb some of the liquid resulting in a moister product. To serve, reheat on the stove until hot, serve with mashed potatoes and sauteed seasonal vegetables. Use the braising liquid for your sauce. Serves 6-7.

Blood Sugar Pill Used in China for 54 Years Goes on Sale Nationwide

Approved by doctors nationwide; triggers weight loss and lowers cholesterol, triglyceride and blood pressure levels; non-addictive and side effect free

A pill that lowers high blood sugar in 30-days has been used safely in China for 54 years. It is now available in the United States.

This pill contains an active ingredient that also triggers weight loss and lowers high blood pressure, cholesterol, and triglyceride levels.

The active ingredient comes from a natural compound. It is both safe and healthy. In 54 years of recorded medical use, there are no known harmful side effects.

Now an improved version of this pill is being offered in the United States under the brand name Plavinol.

"With daily use, Plavinol offers 24-hour relief from blood sugar worries," says Vik Swanson, President of the makers of Plavinol.

"This is what the clinical studies have shown and that's why so many U.S. doctors are now recommending it to patients," he added.

WHY SO MUCH EXCITEMENT?

Scientists in China have discovered a natural compound with a known ability to restore healthy glucose levels without side effects.

This compound is not a drug. It is the active ingredient in Plavinol. Clinical studies in the U.S. have shown it blocks sugar in the foods you eat from entering your blood.

Many users report healthier blood sugar levels in just days. Others claim to lose weight. Many more say their blood pressure, cholesterol, and triglyceride levels return to normal.

"I struggled with high blood sugar for 15 years," said Jack Yates of Henderson, NV. "But now, Plavinol keeps my numbers under control. I lost weight, too — and my cholesterol readings are better than ever," he added.

With so much positive feedback, it's easy to see why sales are booming for the newly approved Plavinol pill.

IMPRESSIVE CLINICAL RESULTS

The clinical trials were conducted by doctors from the Universities of Mississippi, Minnesota, and several health institutes in China.

The results seem hard to believe. Yet, the findings are published in the world's most prestigious medical journals.

Results show those who take Plavinol's active ingredient...

- Reduce after-meal glucose spikes
- Lower high blood sugar levels
- Relieve high cholesterol levels
- Cut triglyceride levels
- Lose excess fat

And while everybody knows the dangers of eating foods that contain excess sugar, one study showed that even after patients consumed almost two ounces of pure sugar, Plavinol's active ingredient kept their glucose levels within a healthy range.

HOW IT WORKS

The active ingredient in Plavinol comes from a natural plant extract called Morus Alba. Scientists believe it works by blocking excess sugar in the foods we eat from entering the blood!

Research shows excess blood sugar is the number one cause of Metabolic Syndrome, which is a group of health conditions that appear together in the body.

According to Swanson, "You may have Metabolic Syndrome if you suffer from two or more of the following issues: Diabetes, obesity, high blood pressure, high Popular pill: U.S. doctors are now recommending new Plavinol because it lowers blood sugar, triggers weight loss, and restores cholesterol, blood pressure, and triglycerides levels to normal without side effects.

cholesterol and high triglyceride levels."

Plavinol's active ingredient is shown to reduce excess sugar in the blood, which is why so many users are seeing a reduction in the symptoms of Metabolic Syndrome.

WHAT DOCTORS ARE SAYING

"In all my years as a doctor, Plavinol is the most exciting new solution to come along for those suffering from high blood sugar," said Dr. Decker Weiss, Integrative Cardiologist and Professional Committee Member of the American Heart Association.

"Many Plavinol users report a decrease in high blood sugar within days, followed by a reduction in high blood pressure and cholesterol within the first month," said Dr. James Leaper, Chief Medical Researcher for Plavinol.

"Plavinol is an excellent choice for overweight people. The clinical trials in support of this pill show it causes weight loss over a 90-day period," said Dr. Holly Lucille, who has appeared on award winning T.V. shows like The Doctors, and PBS' Healing Quest.

HOW TO GET PLAVINOL

This is the official nationwide release of Plavinol in the United States. And so, the company is offering a special discount supply to anyone who calls within the next 48-hours.

A Regional Order Hotline has been set up for local readers to call. This gives everyone an equal chance to try Plavinol.

Starting at 7:00 am today, the order hotline will be open for 48-hours.

All you have to do is call TOLL-FREE 1-888-309-1712 and provide the operator with the special discount approval code: PLV176. The company will do the rest.

Important: Due to Plavinol's recent media exposure on ABC, CBS, and FOX NEWS, phone lines are often busy. If you call, and do not immediately get through, please be patient and call back. Those who miss the 48-hour special discount offer must pay more for Plavinol.

These statements have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration. This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease. All doctors mentioned are remunerated for their services. All clinical studies on Plavinol's active ingredient were independently conducted and were not sponsored by the makers of Plavinol.

Dan Patrick: 'I would never bet against Brady'

The legendary sportscaster talks the GOAT and his new series "Undeniable." MATT JUUL

Legendary sportscaster Dan Patrick has learned quite a few lessons throughout his nearly four-decade career. But when it comes to this weekend's Super Bowl, the only advice he can offer won't make fans outside of New England happy: Don't bet against Tom Brady and the Patriots.

As the Pats prepare to face Los Angeles on Sunday, Patrick already has an idea of what the outcome will be. After all, he was there for Brady's "upset" win against the Rams in 2002, as well as most of his subsequent Super Bowl appearances. He even handed Brady and the Patriots their trophies after their big victory over the Seahawks in 2015.

"I would never bet against Brady and [Bill] Belichick," Patrick tells Metro. "I've learned my lessons down through the years. I was there for Brady's first Super Bowl and, at the time, I thought it was one of the bigger upsets because they beat the 'Greatest Show on Turf.' And then you start to realize that wasn't that big of an upset."

You can see why Patrick found it "amusing" that the Patriots were considered underdogs against the Chiefs during the AFC Championship. Of course, Brady and company ended up proving the sportscaster right with their 37-31 win in overtime.

"I don't think for a second that the Patriots are underdogs," says Patrick. "I'll never, ever think that they're underdogs."

While Patrick won't be manning the desk for NBC during this year's Super Bowl, fans still have plenty of ways to see the sports icon do what he does best thanks to his popular talk radio program "The Dan Patrick Show" as well as his new gig with the AT&T Audience Network. Patrick is replacing fellow sportscasting star Joe Buck as the host of the in-depth interview series "Undeniable," which is back for season 6 and airs on Wednesday nights.

This season will once again feature a number of high-profile guests, including former NFL linebacker Ray Lewis, ex-boxing champ Oscar De la Hoya, former Olympian Carl Lewis and so many more. The former ESPN anchor and "Football Night in America" host was interested in the role because it would allow him to explore long-form interviews, which he considers "a lost art."

"This is not where they are now or where they were as an athlete, it's where they started

WHO ARE CELEBRITIES ROOTING FOR IN THE SUPER BOWL?

Mark Wahlberg is obviously a Pats fan.

RAMS

Snoop Dogg

Snoop has been very vocal before about his team- he even went on a rant in 2016 about the Rams old head coach Jeff Fisher. "Coach need to go ... He don't know how to coach," Snoop said in a video. "He ain't won s---. He ain't gonna win s---. He need to go. Period." However, Snoop seems to love Sean McVay and all things are good between the rapper and his team now. In fact, since the Fisher rant, the "Next Episode" rapper has performed at their halftime show.

Danny Trejo

Actor Danny Trejo has always been a Rams fan- he even used to sneak into the games as a kid. When ESPN asked Trejo how he felt having the Rams back in L.A. a few years ago, he could hardly contain his joy. "It was kind of like part of Los Angeles came back. Los Angeles is this huge puzzle, and there was always a piece missing. Our sports team. Our football team. This is a football city, you understand? This is a football city."

Terry Crews

Crews is not only a Rams fan- he also used to be a Ram. In 1991 the "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" actor played defensive end and linebacker for a handful of teams including the now-L.A.-based squad.

Daniel Radcliffe

The "Harry Potter" actor isn't exactly a Rams superfan- but he sure doesn't like the Patriots or their quarterback. "The whole world's rooting against the Patriots," Radcliffe said "[Tom Brady] should stop winning things. Take that MAGA hat out of your locker. I feel like that was and the obstacles that led to them becoming great," says Patrick. "I enjoy the process of going down memory lane with them. And then you take a couple of off-road expeditions with them and surprise them with some things."

"Undeniable" has a pair of notable names behind the scenes as well, including actor Vince Vaughn and former "A Christmas Story" star Peter Billingsley, who serve as executive producers. "They're both involved and are both very critical of how they want it to look, sound and feel," Patrick says.

Having interviewed thousands of athletes and celebrities throughout his career, Patrick knows the perfect recipe for a great interview. The keys are to get out of the way, leave the ego at the door and let the subject tell their story.

"I don't want somebody to say, 'Those were great questions,'" says Patrick. "I want somebody to say, 'Those were great answers.'"

Patrick reveals that he doesn't use any paper containing interview questions when he speaks with guests on "Undeniable," however, he does have a roadmap for each chat, which stems from six hours of research he devotes to each person. The combination of his preparation and conversational style is what allows him to broach heavier subjects with his guests, such as Tony Stewart's fatal crash with Kevin Ward Jr. in 2014 or Lewis' infamous murder trial.

"Those aren't easy topics to get to, and even when you get to them, what can I get out of you? What haven't you told somebody?" says Patrick. "Those were challenges as well. It's all-encompassing of what you're talking about. I want to make you laugh. I'm going to make you cry. I'm going to make you think. I might make you angry. But those are all things that would come up in a normal conversation when you're looking back through somebody's career."

As for what keeps Patrick motivated after all the years, the sportscaster admits that he still enjoys all the surprises that can happen during any given game.

"You can script a lot of other things, but you can't script this."

the moment when we were like, as a country, 'Oh, c'mon, dude, we all want to be behind you, you're awesome, don't put that in there.'" Patriots fans weren't too pleased.

PATRIOTS

Chris Evans

Captain America is a huge New England fan, and more specifically he loves the proclaimed GOAT, Tom Brady. Evans has even fangirled about Brady before while on Jimmy Kimmel. "Yeah, it's tough because when you see him you're like, man you are the reason the Patriots get to say what we get to say to anyone who doesn't like us ... I just don't want him to think I'm not cool," Evans said.

Mark and Donnie Wahlberg

Is anyone surprised that the Wahlbergs are Patriots fans? Both Donnie and Mark have been avid fans of the New England team for years. They both are vocal about their support and Donnie recently posted a throwback photo of himself on Instagram holding a personalized Patriots jersey fifteen years ago.

Mindy Kaling

Kaling is rooting for New England team like she's done for years. Kaling has been very vocal across her social media accounts, especially last year during the Super Bowl between the Patriots and the Eagles. "The Mindy Project" star has even claimed her household is divided this year because her daughter is a Rams fan.

Elizabeth Banks

Banks has always been a proud "Masshole" and isn't afraid to show it. Her social media is vocal about her team and she didn't even let playing the role of a Giants fanatic in the 2006 film "Invincible" ruin her New England pride.

Matt Damon and Ben Affleck

The Boston natives are rooting for their hometown team this Sunday. In fact, during #DeflateGate both Damon and Affleck defended Brady during a sketch on Jimmy Kimmel. "Let me ask you a question: Who are you gonna believe: Tom Brady, the greatest man in all of humanity? Or a bunch of a--holes on Twitter?" said Affleck's character.

John Krasinski

Krasinski has always been a vocal New England fan. He simply doesn't understand why people hate on his team. "I guess you guys hate winning and legacy and dynasty teams," he said while on ESPN's "His & Hers".

What Super Bowl surprises will drop Sunday?

Studios and streamers are known to drop surprise ads during the big game.

drew.husband@metro.us

During last year's Super Bowl, Netflix dropped a surprise teaser for the "The Cloverfield Paradox." The prequel to the "Cloverfield" films began streaming as soon as the game clock came to a stop. While the streamer's nonexistent gambit ultimately paid off, the movie received poor reviews from critics and audiences.

So will this year's commercials hold any similar surprises?

That all depends on whether Netflix and other industry bigwigs still think previewing titles is worth the millions of dollars these commercials cost. Sure, "The Cloverfield Paradox" may have been a ratings miss, but Nielsen independently claimed that 785,000 viewers tuned in to see what the movie was all about following Super Bowl LII. The three-day haul for the title was around 2.8 million viewers.

Netflix's big gamble possibly got nearly a million people to check out a title that hadn't been advertised before it began streaming. The company most likely considered this a win, as did streaming competitors like Hulu and traditional broadcast and cable outlets, as well as movie studios.

Rumors about the Netflix "Cloverfield" movie had been running rampant by the time Super Bowl LII came around. But what about this weekend's game? Will any of the 2019 commercials reveal the first teasers, trailers or announcements for another surprise movie or show from Netflix or its streaming competitors? So far, Ad Age is reporting that none of the big streamers have purchased any advertising time during Sunday's game.

However, Amazon is teasing something called the "Beta Testing Program" that will undoubtedly involve the use of celebrity cameos. Whether they'll be using these commercials to tease any Amazon Prime titles remains to be seen, but the more curious case is that of Disney's undisclosed number of ad buys for Sunday. This could mean just about anything, from another "Avengers: Endgame" teaser to a first look at "Star Wars: Episode IX."

Or, Walt Disney Co. might be using some of its commercials to begin pushing its Disney+ streaming service. The Netflix competitor is already boasting confirmed and rumored original programming from Lucasfilm and Marvel Studios, so who knows?

I AM NOT A ROBOT!
I'm tired of trying to access a site online and having to prove I'm not a robot. Of course, the "proof" is picking out pictures that have street signs, or storefronts or other choices. If you can't choose correctly on the first try, you're given a few other chances. There's always the possibility you won't ever make the right choice, and so, can't access the site.

I want to know why choosing the right number of street sign pictures proves I'm not a robot? And, why does it matter if I AM a robot? I'm sure if I were one, I'd have an easier time picking the right number of signs!

WALMART SELF-CHECKOUT

I was in Walmart yesterday ready to check out when I noticed half the self-checkout registers were down. When I asked an employee what was wrong, she told me they were being removed because people love to steal. I found using the self-checkouts fast and convenient. It beat waiting in a long line. It lowered your grocery bill because Walmart needed fewer cashiers. Now it's back to waiting in endless lines. Why do people have to ruin everything?

Will Maroon 5 actually play a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute?

Will the rockers be performing "Sweet Victory"?

ANDREW HUSBAND
drew.husband@metro.us

The New England Patriots are going to the Super Bowl for the third straight year, much to the jubilation of fans and annoyance of and detractors. Ignoring the politics of the NFL for a moment, however, a recent Twitter tease by this year's halftime show performers, Maroon 5, has fans of the acclaimed Nickelodeon cartoon SpongeBob SquarePants excited. Why? Because Maroon 5 might play a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute to memorialize the late Stephen Hillenburg.

About 32 seconds into Maroon 5's Super Bowl halftime show teaser, footage from Hillenburg's SpongeBob SquarePants is briefly cut into the mix of performance footage and crowd shots. Otherwise, neither the teaser nor the band makes explicit mention of the character's presence. More than anything, it just seems like a random bit of extra footage that just feels out of place.

If you've been following the hugely popular Change.org petition calling for a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute, however, then Maroon 5's tease means a great deal more. As of this writing, more than 1.1 million people have signed Israel Colunga's petition, which "[calls] for Sweet Victory to be performed" during the customary Super Bowl LIII musical performance. (The petition is

Will the band pay tribute to the Nickelodeon character?

aiming for 1.5 million signatures.)

No one from the NFL, Nickelodeon or Maroon 5 has explicitly stated that the halftime show will somehow incorporate "Sweet Victory." Yet aside from the band's tweet, the relevant parties have been hinting at something since Colunga's petition first went viral. The official Twitter account for the Super Bowl LIII venue, Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta, acknowledged the petition with a SpongeBob GIF. At around the same time, Nickelodeon made the entire "Sweet Victory" sequence from the "Band Geeks" episode available to watch on YouTube.

Again, none of this actually means Maroon 5 will be performing all or some of "Sweet Victory" during their halftime performance. But if they do decide to honor the petition's request to give Hillenburg a SpongeBob Super Bowl tribute, then it will surely be one of the more memorable internet-inspired performances in recent memory.

Flipper 50 Show PROVIDED

Things to do in Miami Beach

As soon as you cross the bridge to Miami Beach, you'll realize very quickly that there's a lot to see and do.

Fodor's Travel

In order to keep you from being overwhelmed and help you plan your trip, we've assembled a list of five of our favorite things to do in Miami Beach. Among them: well-known tourist hot spots and local hideouts; nightlife that'll spike your adrenaline; museums and artwork that will astound and humble you, and of course plenty to eat (and drink) in between those activities.

Here are five great things to do in Miami Beach.

1. Groove out to some reggae at Purdy Lounge, a low-key dance club with some of Miami's best DJs spinning Caribbean music as well as old-school hip-hop. Or drop by for their well-known "Chocolate Sundays," which feature a blender of music genres, cheap drinks, and the weekly Drunken Spellin' Bee.

2. Take a tour of the Historic Art Deco District by foot or bike and see more than 800 stunning architectural landmarks from the 1920s and beyond. You can walk yourself through the history or you can take a narrated tour and hear the interesting stories behind the first contemporary neighborhood to be recognized by the National Register of Historic Places.

3. Miami Seaquarium, just minutes from downtown Miami, is the place to see dolphins fly, fear-some moray eels lurk in coral reef caverns, and where shimmering schools of exotic fish dance through underwater seascapes. It's also the only place where you will see the graceful beauty of a Pacific white-sided dolphin and the incredible power of a three-ton killer whale.

4. Stay at Circa 39, located right in the center of Miami Beach, and just minutes away from a number of craft breweries, the trendy arts district, and numerous live music venues. Once you've ventured into the city, kick back and relax with a rum cocktail by the pool at Wunderbar and lounge in the highly Instagrammable WunderGarden.

5. Order a croque monsieur and a salad with house speciality vinaigrette at La Sandwicherie, a small sandwich bar that packs a punch with its genuine-tasting French food and its fresh smoothies. Some regard this dive as the best sandwich shop in all of Florida. ROBERT COCANOUGHER

ATLANTA

Host of the Super Bowl LIII

Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta is ready to host Super Bowl LIII on Sunday, Feb. 3, when the Los Angeles Rams will play the New England Patriots. It's the third time the Bowl will be held in the ATL — the city hosted Super Bowl XXVIII in 1994, and Super Bowl XXXIV in 2000.

Mercedes-Benz stadium stands in place of Georgia Dome, the Falcons' home from 1992 to 2016. The facility features a retractable roof with triangular translucent panels. When opened, they are designed to create the illusion of a bird's wingspan.

After hosting the Super Bowl, the NCAA announced that Mercedes-Benz Stadium will hold the men's college basketball Final Four tournament in 2020.

The facility is considered one of the best stadiums in the country. That's why it holds a record for attendance during an MLS regular season game. On March 11 of last year, Atlanta United played versus D.C. United at Mercedes-Benz Stadium in front of 72,035 spectators, setting the record for the largest crowd in MLS history.

METRO WORLD NEWS

A HIGH-TECH VENUE

The Mercedes-Benz Stadium features the latest technology since its reopening in mid-2017. It has a retractable roof, which has become one of its main attractions. It also holds the record of the world's largest halo board, which allows 360-degree visibility of the game and shows all the necessary information about it.

Metro Boston predicts Super Bowl LIII

The verdict is in:
The Pats are winning a sixth Super Bowl title.

METRO SPORTS STAFF
sports@metro.us

Sixty minutes. That's all it will take for Tom Brady, Bill Belichick and the New England Patriots to cement their status as the greatest dynasty in sports history.

Super Bowl LIII on Sunday night (on CBS) offers the chance of the Patriots and their dynamic QB-coach duo earning a sixth championship ring.

In their way stands the Los Angeles Rams, a brash group of youngsters keen on proving they're the best.

You've seen our breakdown of the big game all week; now, here is who we think will win.

JULIAN EDLOW

I'll take the Patriots to avenge last year's loss in the Super Bowl and prevail over the Rams in Super Bowl LIII, but it won't come easy. All eight Super Bowls during the Brady-Belichick era have been decided by one score, with the five victories coming by an average of just 3.8 points. New England's defense has been stellar in the first half this postseason, allowing just seven total points to the Chargers and Chiefs combined, but it's still given up 52 second-half points, good for an average of 29.5 points per game. The offense has been tremendous in its own right, averaging 39 points in the postseason. This game has the potential for a shoot-out, but give me the Pats in another thriller, 34-31.

RICHARD SLATE

All eight of New England's previous Super Bowl appearances with Tom Brady and Bill Belichick have resulted in one-score games, so it seems foolish to predict a blow-out either way. Without sounding like too much of a homer, it's tough to overlook the Pats' edge in big-game experience against the mostly green Rams. That goes for the players on the field as well as on the sidelines, where Sean McVay is the new flavor of the month in NFL head coaching. I say the Patriots win and also cover, 31-27, for their sixth Super Bowl title during this once-in-a-lifetime dynasty.

DANNY PICARD

If you think I'm taking the inexperienced Sean McVay and Jared Goff over Bill Belichick and Tom Brady in Super Bowl LIII, you're out of your mind. The Patriots have committed to the type of "underdog" mentality that should scare the living daylights out of a Rams team that shouldn't even be in this game. Pats win 31-17.
